INTERNATIONAL

1) New global report

- A new global report, published jointly by UN Women and UNDP at the Women Deliver Conference, highlights the challenges in achieving gender parity and women's empowerment worldwide.
- The report introduces two indices – Women's Empowerment Index and Global Gender Parity Index – as tools to assess progress in women's human development.
- On average, women achieve 72% of what men do, reflecting a 28% gender gap.

2) East Africa Crude Oil Pipeline

- The East Africa Crude Oil Pipeline project, linking the Tilenga and Kingfisher oilfields in western Uganda with the port of Tanga in eastern Tanzania, has raised concerns over its impact on ecosystems and exacerbating the global climate crisis.
- The pipeline's construction will damage sensitive ecosystems, including Uganda's Murchison Falls National Park and the Murchison Falls-Albert Delta Ramsar site.

NATIONAL

1) Tankai Method

- Recently, the Ministry of Culture and the Indian Navy have signed a Memorandum of Understanding to revive the ancient stitched shipbuilding method, also known as the Tankai method.
- The Tankai method is an ancient shipbuilding technique that involves stitching wooden planks together to construct ships, rather than using nails.
- The revival of the stitched shipbuilding method is vital for preserving India's rich maritime heritage and cultural history.
